STRENGTHS

Adaptable, futuristic, competitive, harmonious, and eager to begin a strong foundation for my career in software development. Experienced in object-oriented design principles as well as unit testing and source control software and equipped with excellent communication and interpersonal skills. Efficient problem solving is what I pride myself on and I am highly capable of integrating into new environments and discovering in what ways I can be effective in unfamiliar situations, while also thinking towards what comes next and staying aware of future goals.
